How to make them so, keep them in Health and They will take care of the rest.

The joy of every well-regulated household comes chiefly from the children. Thousands of affectionate parents do not take care of their children. Through ignorance more than through culpable neglect they suffer them to fall sick and die, when knowledge might have saved them to love and home. Dr. David Kennedy offers his "Favorite Remedy" as emphatically medicine for the children—gentle in its action, containing no harmful ingredients whatever, going straight to the Blood, which, when impure, is the seat and source of disease. "Favorite Remedy" is the friend of childhood and should be found in every nursery in the land. Keep it in your house for your children's sake, as well as for your own. Try it and you will be glad you saw this article. Make no mistakes. The medicine is "Favorite Remedy" and the proprietor's name and address: Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. One dollar a bottle.

This may certify that I, having been acquainted with Mr. John N. Farnham, of this city, for some twenty years last past, can most cheerfully recommend him to the sick and afflicted as a person possessing very high attainments for a gentleman nurse. As a nurse, he has had much experience with the sick in private families and in our hospitals. He makes the business of nursing a profession, and he honors it and excels in it. He is mild, courteous and humane towards his patients. He is vigilant and untiring in efforts to supply their every want. He is known to the physician or surgeon who may be in attendance, as one who carries out the treatment to the very letter. When the physician or surgeon returns, after being absent for a time, Mr. Farnham gives him an accurate account of all that has been done and the results. This is just and honorable towards all parties. Mr. Farnham is a blessing to his race and is doing great good to suffering humanity. That his sphere of usefulness may extend wherever necessity requires, is the sincere desire of his humble servant,

THE HAWAIIAN VOLCANO.

Mauna Loa in Eruption.

RIVERS OF MOLTEN LAVA THIRTY MILES LONG.

We copy the following account of the eruption of the great Sandwich Islands volcano of Mauna Loa, from the Hawaiian Gazette Extra, forwarded us from Honolulu by Mr. W. S. Jameson, formerly of this city:

WAIMEA, November 11th, 1880.

On Friday evening, last week, some of the folks in Waimea saw a faint light reflected on the clouds above that point of Mauna Loa, which cannot be seen from here, Mauna-kea coming between. This was about 7 P. M. It kept increasing all night, till about 3 A. M. I happened to get up and saw a most brilliant reflection on the clouds over Mauna-kea slope. We thought it must be the light from an eruption low down on the slope of Mauna Loa, or else a big fire in the woods on the Kona slope of Mauna Kea. After daylight we saw the smoke rising up in immense clouds, and had all come to the conclusion that it must be volcanic, when the folks from Kapuer Likelike came up from Kawaihae and reported an outbreak on the Hilo side of Mauna Loa and a flow of lava running down the side of Mauna Loa, rather towards Laupahoehoe or Hilo. This was on Saturday; of course there was a great deal of excitement among all hands, about the new, Saturday night the reflection was very, very bright and extended farther along the slope of Mauna Kea. Early the next morning, having prepared a guide across the Waimea plains, I started out to get better information about the whole thing, and return the same day. After a dusty and hot ride of 15 miles I reached the Divide where I could see the slope of Mauna Loa; I could only see a line of smoke issuing along the top of Mauna Loa, a distance perhaps of 2 miles. No smoke, or signs of fire anywhere to be seen down the slope of the mountain. I began to think that the steamer folks had "big eyes" and saw too much. But I could not as yet see down into the Hilo side, about 10 miles to make sure that there was no mistake I climbed a high cone about one mile from where I was, and before I got to the top I discovered, I was almost frightened at my discovery. Instead of seeing all over the plain beyond Kalaeeha, for a space of a mile wide, I could not see how far the flow had got as a range of high cones some three miles to the side of Kalaeeha shut out the view lower down. I watched the flow for some three-fourths of an hour, and then the fog and mist shut out the view entirely; and then I started back for Waimea. Not a bit of smoke, or fire could I see, down the mountain-side the whole distance, and I could see to fire, or smoke, the smoke principally of burning houses and grass. I felt satisfied that the flow was near the old 1855 flow and thought it might be running right over it. But as I could not get to it that night, I returned to Waimea, arriving at about dusty, dirty and tired, ate Sabbath, P. M. That night there was no diminution in the light. The next morning Messrs. Morris, Daniels and myself started off to reach the flow and determine its exact position. It took us till 4 P. M. Monday to get to Kalaeeha station; before we got there, however, we could see no smoke, even where I had seen it the day before. But we still could not see down far on the plain beyond. So after filling up our empty stomachs with rice and tea, we got a lot of blankets and an axe and went on to the hill called Kalaeeha Puu, (on the road to Laumaia), where I knew a fine view of the whole plain down to the Hilo woods could be had.

We pitched our tent under the lee of the hill and alongside of some fine Manani trees, where we could see the whole slope of Mauna Loa, but not the whole plain. Clouds and fog had now enveloped the whole plain and mountain, and not a light could we see. We climbed the hill-side, however, and sat down under the lee of the bushes and we could see the whole line of the fog and clouds. It was not long before old Mauna Loa lifted its bald head above the tops of the snowy clouds and a brilliant fire burst on our view from the summit. In a few minutes we could see the whole line of fire along the summit, down to the terminal crater, where an intense bright light showed us that the flow was just in full force, and was preparing a start for all, seldom to be seen. As the fog gradually cleared from off the sides of the mountain, we saw a tremendous river of fire flowing down the steep ridges. We could see it distinctly down the slope, till it ran into the fog bank, which had settled like a huge snow bed all over the lowlands. The river was of immense width and was running furiously downward. After waiting till eleven o'clock, and the fog not clearing off the plain, we went back down to the camp and had our midnight meal. About half past twelve the fog lifting, two of us went up the side of the hill towards Puna to see the sight, and what a sight it was. Almost under our feet lay the red sea of fire slowly pushing its way along through the scrub Manani. The whole stream lay before us. Soon the moon set, and still it was light enough to see the stream. Away above us in the heavens issue the brilliant fountain head, and from thence to the end was a continuous stream of liquid lava, by guess by far than five, as we could see by the fire looked in the distance, and when a bush took fire and burnt up alongside. There lay a river of fire before us, at least thirty miles long, every inch of which was one bright boiling mass of fire. There was not a single break in the whole length. It divided about a mile from the top and ran, down forming a parallelogram, about again and run like a river of fire. The whole front edge being about three-fourths of a mile wide was a most intensely brilliant light, and as it advanced and rolled over the small trees and scrub, the flames would flash up and die out along its whole edge.

As we sat there in the cool, still night, watching it, every now and then a report as of a cannon, broke on the silence, following the line of fire, caused, I suppose, by the heating of air under the new lava in the old lava caverns and bursting up through the crust. Then, too, occasionally a deep, hoarse, continuous rumbling noise would start up from our seats, evidently coming from the deep recesses of the old mountain, as if it was spouting forth its fiery flood. The cannonade was very frequent, every minute or so, and again coming from a distance away up the side of the mountain. I could compare the whole view, with nothing, but the illustration of chain lightning, except in its track, as the fire seemed to come out of the heavens, it was so far above us. As we sat there watching it, all at once a huge dome of molten lava was thrown up which had risen up the mountain side, and continued to flow over like an immense fountain, as long as we watched it. We also saw another stream of lava start from the fountain head and run right along the top ridge of the mountain for about two miles and then apparently stop. There was no fountain throwing up lava on the top of the mountain, only a steady rushing stream. About half past two we descended to camp and turned in for a few hours' sleep.

The next day after breakfast we made a futile attempt to reach the flow directly opposite Kalaeeha, but as the fog and mist were very thick, gave it up.

On my return I again made the ascent to where we viewed the fire the night before to determine the position of the whole flow. Before I reached the place the mists cleared off and I had a splendid view. I found that the fire had originally broken out away up the mountain side, and flowed along the mountain to where the flow of 1855-6 had broken out, and at the same place again started down and running over the old flow a half mile or so had turned off on the north side of it and then had followed it right down on the north side until it reached what is called the middle ground, and the lava turned across the said ground and was flowing over the old "aa" flow on the north side of the middle ground. I then returned to the others and reported what I had seen. We again mounted our horses and in one and one-half hours reached the new flow. We took the track from Kalaeeha to Kipukahaina and then followed down the Hilo road from the old Rollock's Head to where it turns down into the big Kipuka above Halealoa at the foot of the descent (not far from where we find the obelos so thick). We crossed the old flow for about 100 feet and then stood on the very edge of that flowing river of rock. Oh, what a sight that was! Not twenty feet from us was this immense bed of rock slowly moving forward with irresistible force, bearing on its surface huge rocks and immense bowlders of tons weight, as water would carry a toy boat. The whole front edge was one bright red mass of solid rock incessantly breaking off from the towering mass and rolling down to the foot of it, to be again covered up by another avalanche of white-hot rocks and sand. The whole mass was at its front edge from 12 to 30 feet in hight. Along the whole line of its advance it was one crash of rolling, sliding, tumbling red-hot rock. We could see no fire or liquid lava at all, but the whole advance line of red-hot stones and scoria. The latter would frequently run down the slope like water, only all separate in red-hot grains. There were no explosions while we were near the flow, only a tremendous roaring like ten thousand blast furnaces all at work at once. The flow here was only 15 rods and so far as we could see it. What a tremendous heat arose from its surface. The whole mass was, on top where no red-hot rock could be seen, a dull brick color. The advance was very slow, but you would not think it will get over on to the flat where that koa grove is, near where we turn to go to Kipukahaina, for at least four days. After that it will run much faster down the Kipuka above Halealoa. Well after we got through looking at it for a while and setting our sticks on fire, we started back for Kalaeeha and Waimea, where we arrived the next Wednesday morning, in time for breakfast, having seen a sight which is seldom seen.

There will not be much danger of the flow ever reaching Hilo if it should keep on running the way it is now, as it will have that immense valley to fill up below Puu Olo and Waiahu Swamp. But I am afraid that the Pahoehoe flow will start out on the South side of the koa and then it will of course follow the 1855-6 flow to Hilo and go quick too. So there is still great danger for our beautiful town. The two lava flows, this one and the one of 1855-6 run side by side for miles and if the 1856 one prevents the Pahoehoe flow from running on it on that side and press it out on the North side of the new as flow Hilo will be safe, I think. You know I am an old kamaaina up there and know of what I am writing. There is no diminution of the fire and the smoke is getting thicker, showing that the flow has got into the large koa forest at the end of the "middle ground." If the flow had not been hemmed in on the "middle ground," but had followed the old 1856 flow down, it would probably have been now within 15 miles of Hilo. It is now about 21 miles from there. I expect it will gobble up Halealoa if it keeps on, but it is not probable that it will run down the Kipukahina flat.

The quickest way to reach the flow is via Hilo, as one day will bring any one to the flow, and it will take at least two days from Kawaihae. I feel anxious for Hilo and shall watch further developements very anxiously.

GLORYING IN SHAME!

The Fusionists Boasting that they Endorsed the State Steal!

We have succeeded in pushing the Fusion organ into an open confession that its party did go into the campaign last summer to sustain and endorse the monstrous counting-out fraud of the infamous Garcelon Gang. Under the impulse of a sharp lashing its spite has run away with its caution, and it brutally blurts out its boast that its party did make the contest on the issue stated as follows in our columns of Sept. 9:

"On that issue we vote next Monday. Whoever votes for Harris M. Plaisted, votes to sustain the counting-out infamy of 1879. * * * Whoever votes for the Fusion candidates endorses the transactions of last winter."

The Commercial prints the above in conspicuous type with the boast that on that issue 73,742 votes for Plaisted and 14,065 votes for Ladd were cast as indorsement and approval of the whole infamy of the State Steal!

It claims every voter for Plaisted or Ladd as the ally, accomplice and justifier of Garcelon, Foster, Pillsbury, Fogg and the rest of the mal-odorous crew whose very names are still an offence in the nostrils of decent people.

There is no doubt that the boast is truthful so far as the leaders and the great bulk of the Fusion voters are concerned, but we know that some men deluded themselves with the belief that they could vote against the Republican party without approving Garcelonism and there were probably thousands who would have utterly refused to vote the Fusion ticket if they had been convinced that their action would practically endorse the State Steal. Now the mask is thrown off and these men are told by the Commercial that our statement of the issue was correct and that their votes are claimed as a direct vindication of the counting-out frauds.

This defiant proclamation by the mouthpiece of Fusionism in this section, applies a square test to the men who declared that in voting the Fusion ticket they had no intention to indicate any sympathy with the Garcelon rascality. At this moment we chance to remember a case of that kind: On the Saturday evening before the September election, as Mr. Boutelle, at a meeting in Newburg, was stating the issue substantially as quoted above, a citizen present whose name we think was Chapman, and who was, as we were told, the President of a Greenback Club, arose and protested that while he intended to vote for the Fusion candidates he did not justify the State Steal, and should not consider his vote an endorsement of it. The speaker clearly pointed out to him that he could not vote for candidates so notoriously identified with the conspiracy without practically giving it his sanction; but the Greenbacker insisted that he couldvote the ticket solely on the currency issue and not give any approval to Garcelonism. Now comes the Commercial and brags that every Fusion vote was an indorsement of the whole wickedness of Garcelon and his Council. This entitles Mr. Chapman and others like him to the floor to say whether they accept the odium which they indignantly repudiated during the campaign.

Meanwhile we are glad to see the home organ of Plaisted so boldly hoist the whole infamy of the Garcelon iniquity upon the shoulders of Plaisted and his party. That is where it belongs.

THE ARREARAGES OF PESSIONS.

HEAVY APPROPRIATIONS REQUIRED.

The House of Representatives on Wednesday passed the Pension Bill, which appropriates $50,000,000. Mr. Hubbell, who had charge of the bill, explained the operation and effect of the arrearage act, and showed that the amount for pensions would be increased annually for some time to come, in consequence of a large number of claims still unsettled and yet to be presented under that act. He stated that $24,060,000 has already been paid out under the Arrearages act and that, supposing 30 per cent. of the 281,000 claims now pending under that act to be rejected, 197,000 more first payments, averaging $1,100 each, will be required. To meet these and some other claims, which will average about $567 each, will require over $219,000,000, making, with the amount already paid, about $243,060,000. This will be required to meet first payments only. The average age of pensioners, Mr. Hubbell says, is forty-one years, and he estimates that the annual payments, when all the pending claims are disposed of, will amount to about $46,000,000. Mr. Hubbell declared that the present pension laws do not afford sufficient safeguards against attempts to defraud the Government under the present system. He declared on the authority of the Commissioner of Pensions that probably about $4,000,000 is now paid yearly to pensioners on papers which have been fraudulently obtained. It is certain that the loyal people of the country would not grudge even the heavy sum involved if they could be sure that it actually goes into the hands of deserving veterans and their families, but there is reason to fear that a large amount finds its way into unworthy hands and every precaution should be adopted to prevent abuse of the Nation's bounty.

It is an indication that the masses have been saving money when working people in Springfield send nearly $3,000 to relatives in Ireland as Christmas gifts. This amount has been sent within ten days. —Boston Post.

We could hardly expect the Commercial to copy this, even from a Democratic paper, as it does not furnish any indication of "hard times."

Gen. Schofield has been assigned to a new military division with his headquarters at New Orleans, but what is the use of sending a Major General there when it has been decided that no Federal troops must be permitted on the soil of the late Confederacy? Will Gen. Schofield's contempt for "niggers" induce the chivalry to tolerate his blue uniform, so long as he has no soldiers there?

Prince's four hundred majority for Mayor of Boston, is rapidly dwindling, the recount up to Saturday night having reduced it 254 votes.

THE NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL BILL.

The Educational bill introduced by Senator Burnside was passed by the Senate at 6 o'clock Friday evening. The only amendment of importance is that proposed by Senator Morgan, providing for the instruction of women in the State Agricultural colleges in such branches of technical education as are suited to their sex. By the provisions of the bill the proceeds of the sale of public land and the earnings of the Patent Office are to be funded at 4 per cent, and the interest divided among the States in proportion to their illiteracy.

The measure is designed exclusively for the benefit of the colored race in the South. The most notable feature of the discussion was that in regard to the Teller amendment. This provided that the proceeds themselves of the land sales and patents, and not the interest, should be given to the States. Considerable feeling was manifested in regard to this matter. It was urged with much force that the colored people, through no fault of their own, are now in a condition to need the benefits to be derived from this money much more than future generations will need it, while on the other hand the interest upon the money will not amount to enough to confer any appreciable benefit until the proceeds of several years' operations shall have accumulated. This amendment was adopted in the Committee on the Whole, but was lost by a tie vote. The following Senators voted no upon the final passage of the bill: Jonas, McDonald, Saulsbury, Vest, Voorhees and Williams.

The following is a synopsis of the bill as passed.

The net proceeds of the sales of public lands and of patents are forever set apart for the education of the people.

The Secretary of the Treasury shall yearly apportion to the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia upon the basis of the population, between the ages of five and twenty years, the said net proceeds for the previous year, which shall be credited on the books of the Treasury as an educational fund, on which 4 per cent interest per annum is to be paid to the States as above provided; that for the first ten years the apportionment shall be made according to the numbers of the population of ten years and upward who cannot read and write; and provided further, that one-third of the income from said fund shall be annually appropriated to the completed endowment and colleges established or which may be established under the act of 1862 until the amount annually thus accruing to said colleges in each State shall reach $30,000, after which the whole income of said fund shall be appropriated by the said States, Territories and District, to the education of all children between the ages of six and sixteen.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to add to the fund any sums given to the United States for that purpose. A sum not exceeding 20 per cent on of the amount received by any State, etc., the first year, and not exceeding 10 per cent in any year thereafter, may be applied, at discretion, to the maintenance of schools for instruction of teachers of common schools. To be entitled to the benefits of this act, any State, etc., until January 1, 1886, and thereafter four months in each year, a system of free public schools for all children between six and sixteen years of age; any State, etc., misapplying any of the money received under this act shall forfeit further grants until the amount so misapplied shall have been replaced by said estate, etc. Nothing contained in the act shall be held to alter any previous law regarding the disposition of public land, nor to limit the power of Congress over the public domain, nor to interfere with granting bounty land to soldiers and sailors. The bill also authorizes colleges established under the act of 1862 to establish schools for the technical education of women.

WHAT THE REPUBLICAN PARTY HAS DONE FOR THE NATIONAL CREDIT.

[From the Boston Post, Dem.]

Brother Jonathan may well be excused for self complacency when the Times Thunderer speaks thus of our financial condition: "The unprecedented rate of redemption is having its natural effect in raising the credit of the United States to a level with the most staid and best paying communities in the Old World. In reaching that level the United States will only attain the rightful position of a country which is so faithful to its engagements, whose resources are so limitless, and whose population increases with such remarkable rapidity, ought to enjoy—the best credit accorded to any State. In all probability, should conditions remain favorable, Secretary Sherman will accomplish his refunding operations at a rate nearer 3 than 4 per cent. The very rapidity with which he is able to pay off the debt must aid him most materially by reducing the supply of stock. This, acting pari passu with the augmenting demand for sound investments, will give him an indisputable advantage in his operations." It used to be said across the water, "nobody reads an American book." The change in this respect is quite as remarkable as in our financial condition.

[The Republicans of this country may well be excused for self complacency when the leading Democratic organ of New England quotes from the leading journal of Old England such a tribute to the splendid success of the Republican policy of resumption, accomplished in spite of the national platform of the Post's Democratic party, in spite of the persistent hostility of the Post's Democratic friends in Congress at every stage of progress toward specie payments, and in spite of the soft-money inflation coalitions in Maine and elsewhere to which the Post gave only too ready aid and comfort. Yet considering all that the Republicans had to contend against, their success in making our currency as good as gold and in "raising the credit of the United States" is something to be proud of. ED. WHIG.]

FITZ-JOHN PORTER'S CASE.

GENERAL GRANT'S OPINION OF IT.

A special correspondent of the New York Times gives the following interesting report of the views of General Grant on the merits of Fitz-John Porter's case, as given in a conversation at the time of the discussion in the Senate, last spring upon Randolph's bill for the restoration of Porter to full rank and pay:

At this time, however, there can be no impropriety in giving the gist of his remarks on a subject which is familiar to him and on which he is, as a military man, most competent to speak. As the successful commander of the eastern army and as President he had exceptionally good opportunities to get at the merits of the case. The conversation in which Gen. Grant expressed his views was not in the form of an interview, and he did not go into the details of the case, but gave his conclusions, reached after a thorough consideration of the new Confederate evidence on which is based Porter's plea for relief. The conversation sprang from a comment on Carpenter's speech and followed a question as to the propriety of President Hayes's action in giving the case a hearing.

"Soon after my inauguration the first time," said Gen. Grant, "one of Porter's intimate friends came to me and urged me to take steps for a reopening of his case. He brought with him a mass of documents which, it was claimed, would show Porter's action in a better light. I took the papers and went through them. When he called again for an answer, I told him that when I urged a reopening of that case I would also urge the hanging of Porter. That's the last I heard of the case. They waited until Hayes got in before they brought up their new evidence again. I had another case of the same kind. An officer of the Twenty-first Illinois, the regiment I first took command of, was dismissed the service, and as soon as I was elected President he came to me to have his case retried. He didn't get it, but I see he has been successful since then. I haven't much sympathy with a man who staid at home after being dismissed as an officer, and then after the war is over, comes in with a claim for pay. If he should enlist after being dismissed I might think he was patriotic."

What Gen. Grant said in connection with the court-martial which tried Gen. Porter was due to the writer, but may not be so to others who are more familiar with the details of the case on whose memory is more tenacious. "That court," he stated, "was composed of conservative men. I doubt if an equal number of prominent officers less likely to be unjustly severe could be found in the army. They were men more disposed to be merciful than severe. After going into all the details and sifting all the evidence they concluded Gen. Porter should be shot. There was no difference of opinion among them—the conclusion was unanimous. President Lincoln was responsible for the modification of sentence. He interceded in behalf of Porter, not for Porter's sake, but as a matter of public policy. He wrote to the court urging them to spare Porter's life. The feeling in the army of the Potomac at that time was such that Mr. Lincoln was afraid of the effect of the execution of an officer of Porter's rank. So the court dismissed him from the service with loss of pay, although they believed the evidence warranted a more severe punishment."

As to the Confederate evidence which has been urged in Porter's interest, Gen. Grant said: "This is the evidence of the enemy, and amounts to this, that if Porter had gone into the fight he would have been whipped. That sort of evidence is not worth a great deal. You can always prove by a General that, he would have won a fight that never took place. Many a General who was sure of success has been whipped. No enemy may be able to see flaws in a General's plans that he does not see. The confidence of the enemy that they could have whipped Porter is no excuse for Porter's failure to fight."

Gen. Grant did not know whether it was fair to say Porter was a traitor. He knew him at West Point, and their relations had always been friendly, and he had no reason to doubt Porter's loyalty up to the time he left he was not appreciated by the Administration. "It did not look well," he said, "for Porter to come out of the war after his dismissal. As his loyalty was in question, he would have done well to vindicate it by going into the Army as a private. If he could go in no other way. The country needed the services of every able-bodied man. Porter staid at home, and now comes forward, years after, and asks for pay. If a man leaves his country, he will serve it when in danger; and if he can be a General he will be a private soldier."

While I have used quotation-marks pretty liberally in this, I do not mean to give it as a verbatim report of the conversation—but it is correct in substance. I believe it agrees with the views of most military men who have given the case attention. At various army reunions in the West I have heard the matter commented on, and have yet to hear any volunteer officer in the West approve of any measure for the relief of Fitz John Porter. The general feeling is that he owes his life to the circumstances which made it appear injudicious to enforce the highest penalty.

How melancholy it must make Bass feel to see so lively a holiday trade. It is about time for the Commercial to fish up some report of business disaster to frighten country dealers from buying goods.

THE GOVERNOR ELECTION.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

The Governor question has called out communications from talented men of both political parties, lawyers and others. The common people, feel an interest as well, and regard it of infinite importance not merely for the present, but for the hereafter. We say: If a Governor was elected at all, it was in September and that the ballots were cast, as in years past, knowing nothing about an amended Constitution. Had we been certified of an amendment, our votes might have been materially changed. When the people cast their votes for Governor it will be conceded they were under the shield of a Constitution. Had the old one become obsolete, or had it been legally and constitutionally amended and had the people notice thereof before they cast their votes for Governor? Let us see: It is true that a resolution had been adopted by the Legislature to submit to the people to amend the Constitution as to the choice of Governor, but no one knew at the moment he cast his vote for Governor how the vote on the amendment stood, whether for or against. Again, something quite essential was to be done to give a soul to the resolve—the resolve and the vote upon it were cold and dead as the clods of the valley until life and vigor were vouchsafed by the report of the Governor and Council and the proclamation of the Governor. But we submit it was too late to have a legit make effect upon what had been done some weeks before. Before a law can be binding or effectual in anyway it must be made known or promulgated in some form.

The people care comparatively very little who is Governor, but they do value the Constitution. They want no "prentices hand" to meddle with it. Politicians are apt to "hurry up and break things." The people as a body are not dangerously impulsive. They have some homely maxims that are quite useful, such as "slow but sure," "don't run before you are sent," "don't crow before you are out of the woods," etc., etc.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

ABOUT SOUTHERN JUDGES.

[From the New York Tribune.]

A vacancy upon the Supreme Bench of the United States has just occurred by the retirement of Justice Strong, and one or two more are likely to happen within a few weeks. A very proper suggestion made in the Southern newspapers that one of these vacancies should be filled from the South, has been acted upon by the President. The States lying south of the Potomac and the Ohio have now but a single representative in the tribunal of the last resort—Justice Harlan, of Kentucky, whose residence at Louisville identifies him almost as much with the North as the South. A Judge familiar with the social condition, local laws, and business interests of the section of the Union lately in rebellion will be a valuable accession to the Supreme Bench. People in the North will readily concede that the claim which comes up from the South is just, and should be heeded by the Senate as it has been by the President, that when names of available appointees are canvassed it is not agreeable for them to hear objections urged against certain eminent jurists on the ground that they were not born in the South although they have long resided in that section and are thoroughly conversant with its affairs. Justice Field was not born in California, but no one complained when he was appointed that he was not a proper representative of the Pacific coast. Justice Miller is not a native of Iowa, but he is none the less accounted an Iowa man. Why should it be insisted that Southern birth is essential to entitle a Judge to acceptance as a Southern man?

Take, for instance, the case of Judge Woods, of Alabama, who has been nominated by the President for Justice Strong's place. He has been for a long time on the bench of the United States Circuit Court, and his promotion to the Supreme Bench was very naturally suggested when the last vacancy was filled. He has lived fifteen years at the South, not counting the four years he spent there in the United Army. But he was born in Ohio, and the Southern newspapers insist that he is not a Southern man. We would like to ask a plain question. Is not their real objection to him and others of his class the fact that they are Republicans? After holding Court for many years in a circuit embracing six States, it is fair to presume that Judge Woods knows more about Southern matters than either of the Judges of mere local experience who were urged by the Southern papers. His ability is not disputed. Why, then, was there such a general opposition to his appointment? Is it not because the Bourbon Democrats who control the organs of public opinion in the South hoped to get a man on the Supreme Bench who would represent Southern theories of government? Because they knew that while Judge Woods has spent his whole life at the South, was a vehement and leading Democrat, yet their rebellion made him first a War Democrat, then a soldier, and then, through that natural gate, a Republican? Do they not want a Judge who will reassert the old heresy of States Rights, hold that the election laws are unconstitutional, and hint at grave doubts about the validity of the XIIIth, XIVth and XVth Amendments? If they do, they are likely to be disappointed. We trust that the President will select no one for the prospective vacancies belonging to the old school of Southern jurists. They are all tinctured with State Supremacy notions. The new men put upon the bench should be strongly committed with the principles of nationality and equal rights which are the priceless fruits of a twenty years' struggle. We want no Judges whose faces are turned toward the past and who are still fumbling in the ashes of constitutional theories that were burned up in the fierce flame of battle. The President has begun well, and we hope to see him continue to the end.

ROMANISM AND WEST POINT. The Chicago Advance, in an article declaring that the hostility to Gen. Howard in certain military circles is due to the dominance of Roman Catholic influences, makes the following statements:

For many years the family of Gen. Schofield have been ardent Roman Catholics. Within a few years the General himself passed from Low Church Episcopacy to pronounced Romanism. Gen. Sherman may not be a Roman Catholic, but his wife—a lovely woman and a power behind the throne—is widely known for her enthusiastic devotion to Romanism, and is a favorite of the Pope. Gen. Sheridan, if not particularly devout, is in his sympathies a Catholic. Among the officers high in the staff department is a strong representation also of Catholicism. All through the war, and for years subsequently, the Assistant Adjutant General, who had most to do with the transfer of officers and their assignment to their several posts, was a vehement Roman Catholic. It was through the influence of Bishop Rosecrans, brother of Gen. Rosecrans, it is said, that the wife and daughters of Gen. Schofield became Catholics during the war.

"If Fitz John Porter were not a Democrat how many Democratic Senators would be found voting to put him back into the army?" asks the Tribune. If Fitz John Porter were not a Democrat, he would have been in the army these past eighteen years, enjoying its largest honors.—Boston Post.

Ah! Then it was his Democracy which led him to disobey orders and do his best to cause the defeat of the Union Army under Gen. Pope, for which he was cashiered by a court-martial! Well, we thought as much.

THE BANGOR WHIG has no idea of having any hesitancy or timidity in printing the names in big capitals of the nefarious crew that by means of perjury, forgeries, erasures, interpolations, and other tampering with and substitution of returns last winter, deliberately "counted-out" thirty-seven legally elected members of the Legislature. Pillsbury, Garcelon, Foster, Fogg, Brown, Parker, Monroe and Chase, are all impaled in its columns in letters as black as their own hearts, than which nothing could be blacker.—Bath Times.

Some one in St. Louis took pains to inform the public by telegraph that Carl Schurz is "fully prepared to be without office under the Garfield administration." Well, why shouldn't he? Some forty to fifty millions of American citizens will also be without office.

Surely the Commercial should be willing to notice the remarkable "prosperity" of the thoroughly Democratic interest as be whiskey distilleries of Kentucky!

The Vermont Legislature has voted to adjourn on Thursday next.

A CLEAR FIELD FOR SHERMAN.

Governor Foster's Letter of Withdrawal.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19. Governor Foster, in response to a letter from Speaker Cowgill, of the Ohio House of Representatives, intimating that there is danger to the Republican party if the present deadly contest for the U. S. Senatorship continues, has written a letter in which he says:

"Up to the present moment I have fairly and honorably done what I could to promote my candidacy, and information I have received leads me to believe that if I continued the canvass to the end I am not without a fair prospect of success. Knowing that many of my friends feel the apprehension referred to, and wishing only to serve the best interests of the party without considering the future so far as it relates to me personally, I have concluded to yield to the judgment of friends and withdraw from the canvass.

Does He Refer to Gen. Garfield.

Gov. Foster further says: That in declining further to be a candidate he is but obeying the wishes of many leading Republicans, among whom are those who hold high positions in the expressed confidence and esteem of the party.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS—Third Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.

Senate not in session.

House.

The morning hour was dispensed with and the House went into a Committee of the Whole on the Military Academy bill. Mr. Money, of Alabama, made a short explanation of the bill which appropriates $322,135, after which it was read by sections for amendment.

Mr. Conger moved to strike out the proviso allowing the Secretary of the War to assign any officer of the Army as Professor of Law at West Point Academy. There has been, he said (alluding to the Whittaker case) an exhibition made by an officer in charge of the examination of a colored cadet at West Point that was unworthy of any officer in the service of the Government. The amazing spectacle had been presented of an institution supported by the Government being ruled by caste. He cared not whether the colored cadet had been the author of his own misfortune. An institution that would drive a man, goad a man, compel a man by his isolation and his want of all human sympathy, to resort to such measures, needed watching.

He had merely desired to express his indignation at the spirit which prevailed in that institution and under its new management he hoped the Academy would be redeemed and become again the pride and glory of the country. The amendment was then withdrawn. The bill was then reported to the House and passed.

The House then went into Committee on the Consular Appropriation Bill. It appropriates $1,190,435.

After further debate the committee rose and reported the bill to the House and it passed, yeas, 140; nays 2, (no quorum) and the bill went over till Monday. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON.

Military Changes—Howard Ordered to West Point, Schofield to New Orleans, etc.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. A general order just issued from Army Headquarters assigns Gen. O. O. Howard to command West Point with brevet of Major General; Gen. Augur to Department of Texas; Col. Hunt of 5th Artillery, temporary command of the Department of the South; Col. R. S. McKenzie of 4th Cavalry to command the new Department of Arkansas, Louisiana and Indian Territory; Gen. John M. Schofield to command the Military Division of the Gulf, comprising Arkansas and Texas with headquarters at New Orleans; Brig. Gen. N. A. Miles to succeed Howard in command of Department of Columbia.

ENGLAND'S NIGHTMARE.

The Anarchy in Ireland.

The Thunderer Scolds Gladstone.

Coercive Measures Demanded.

Anarchy and Terrorism in Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 18. The state of anarchy and fear which now exists in Ireland is startlingly illustrated by the declaration to the bench by the jury impannelled in one of the several murder cases shortly to be tried, that they do not and shall not consider as binding their oath to give a verdict according to their conscience, because a verdict of guilty would inevitably cost them their lives.

The Times Scolding the Gladstone Government.

The Times says: The Government's last and unnecessary blunder is Gladstone's reply to Boycott's demand for assistance by the government, which is conceived in a spirit that will provoke much dissatisfaction. Public opinion cannot but be offended by the letter which is devoid of natural sympathy and conceived in a spirit of pettishness against Boycott for having necessitated the employment of troops. Unsatisfactory as the action of the government is, and unable as they are to agree, we must still retain them if for no other reason than that we should "not exchange horses while crossing the stream." It is to be hoped that they will brace themselves up when the time for legislation comes however limp may be their attitude as an executive government. In consequence of the refusal of Gladstone to assist Boycott the English public will be appealed to for aid.

Military Police.

A London correspondent of the Edinburgh Scotsman says: The despatch of further troops to Ireland has no reference to any expected popular outbreak. The government have in view the use of the military in those districts where the magistrates declare that they can no longer depend on the police. The same course was adopted in 1664.

KELLY SPITS AT TILDEN!

HIS STATEMENT OF THE NEW YORK VOTE

The Boss Charges Tilden & Co. with Treachery to Hancock.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. The Star will print Sunday a response from John Kelly to the charge that he was responsible for the defeat of Gen. Hancock in the late election. He shows by a tabulated statement giving in detail the vote of this State that the Democratic vote in New York City was increased over that of 1876 by 9 per cent., while the Democratic vote in the remainder of the State was increased less than one per cent. He claims that the whole State of New York, outside of New York City and King's county, was wholly in the hands of and manipulated by Samuel J. Tilden. Had the remainder of the State thrown the same increased Democratic vote as New York City, namely 9 per cent., Gen. Hancock would have been elected. He claims that Tilden, Cooper & Co., are the traitors to the Democratic party and closes a long address by urging Democrats to harmonize and rally for the future.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 18. The whiskey men of Louisville report an immense increase of business this year over all others in the past. Some firms have contracted to sell all they can produce for as long ahead as 1882. The demand has more than doubled. In addition to the increase of capacity of the present distilleries of Kentucky, the State now has nearly twice as many as formerly, while other firms are talked of. Several firms hitherto merely wholesale dealers are now distilling. The demand comes from the Northwest, in the main, although the East and South are also well represented. The force of store-keepers and gaugers has been increased to keep up with the additional manufacture.

SABBATH DESECRATION. Yesterday afternoon Marshal Reed made a raid on a club room in Pickering Square. There were a number of men in the room at the time, but none of them claimed ownership of the property in the place. Cards were scattered about on the table and beer bottles were lying about in profusion. The matter will be thoroughly investigated today by Marshal Reed and the right ones found and punished.

The family lost everything except a little furniture in the lower part of the house. The loss will amount to about five hundred dollars and is uninsured. The house of George Blackmore, located near by, had a narrow escaped. We understand that the fire originated from a defective chimney.

BANGOR REFORM CLUB. City Hall was well filled yesterday upon the occasion of the regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the Reform Club. Vice President McFarland presided. Dr. Torsey and wife are visiting friends in this city and he is sure to meet numbers of his pupils wherever he goes. He has been connected with the Seminary for forty years and in that time has assisted in the training of some twenty thousand students. For some years Dr. Torsey has suffered very severely from an affection of the eyes, and his sight is very much impaired. He is cheerful and wide-awake as possible, however, and we greatly enjoyed a chat with him.

A FINE COTTAGE. The summer cottage now being built on Metcalf's Point, east of Holyoke's, for Dillingham, of Bangor, will be one of the handsomest summer cottages on the coast. Spencer Mero is the architect which is sufficient guarantee that the work will be done in a first class manner. It is to be one story and a half with eight feet veranda on three sides, and will have twelve good sized rooms. In one of the double sitting rooms will be an open fire-place. It will be finished with an ice closet and all the late improvements. Its dimensions will be 32x38½ feet with a stable attached measuring 18x25 feet. It will be completed sometime about the first of April. Several others from the same place are thinking of building on the Point before the next season.—Camden Herald.

INSANE HOSPITAL. The Maine Farmer says: The Insane Hospital in Augusta was open for the reception of patients in October, 1840. Soon after it was opened Miss Esther Gilpatrick of Gardiner, then a young lady of twenty-one years, entered the Hospital as a patient. For forty years she has been, off and on, a patient in this institution, spending the most of her life within its walls. At times she was apparently perfectly sane and during these periods often lived with families in this city and Gardiner. She was widely known and had a large circle of friends who were interested in her case. For the past ten years she has been in the Hospital nearly all of the time, and for the last few months she has been sick with Gastritis; during this illness she was blessed with her reasons and on Friday last she was released from further earthly sufferings.

COLBY UNIVERSITY. A special meeting of the Board of Trustees of Colby University was held Friday evening at the office of Judge Bonney, at Portland, Ex-Governor Coburn presiding, to consider what action should be taken by reason of the continued ill health of President Robins, and to make provisions for instruction in the department of history. The Board after a general expression of regret gave the President leave of absence for the remainder of the academic year, and appointed a committee consisting of Hon. J. Warren Merrill, Drs. Shaller and Ricker, to provide for suitable instruction in his department during his absence. Albion W. Small was unanimously elected Professor of History to enter upon his duties at the beginning of the fall term, when the funds to endow the professorship will be received. He graduated at the Portland High School, at Colby University class of 1875, at Newton Theological Institution, and has been studying in Germany for the past two years.

BOWDOIN COLLEGE. The librarian states that 130 volumes have been received at the college library during the past term. There is a mark revival taking place in military matters at the college. This department has been somewhat slighted for a number of years, but over fifty of the students have signified their willingness to elect the drill at the opening of the spring term, and the prospects are that the department will gain a more enviable name than it has held heretofore. The U. S. government offers as a special inducement to those who will drill two years, to furnish free of charge, muskets, ammunition and a full uniform. Should a sufficient number, however, fail to accept of these advantages, the military department will probably be abolished, and transferred to some other institution in the State. The Bugle is out. The volume is well gotten up, and reflects great credit upon the editors and printers. The debt which has been hanging over the Boating Association for some years past is being rapidly raised by subscription. Never was more interest manifested or more support given to the various sports than during the present term.

A HORSE THIEF ARRESTED. At about eleven o'clock Saturday morning Marshal Reed received a despatch from Augusta, requesting him to be on the lookout for a negro named George Wright, who had stolen a team from that city and was coming this way. He made his arrangements accordingly, and between three and four o'clock he was informed that the team was coming up the Hampden road. He immediately started out and found the team standing in the Bangor House stable yard, the thief having entered the building. As soon as Marshal Reed saw the fellow he stepped up to him and said, "How are you Mr. Wright?" The fellow was somewhat astonished but recovered himself and promptly denied that his name was Wright "Well" said the Marshal, "Whether it is Wright or wrong, I think I will take charge of you," and started his man for the station house. On the way down the fellow gave the whole thing away and acknowledged the theft. A despatch was sent to Augusta and Marshal White, of that city, came over on the afternoon train and returned with his prisoner on the Pullman. Mr. Pettengill, the owner of the horse, arrived in the city yesterday morning and started for home again with his team.

The first night train over the E. & N. A. Railway will start for St. John this evening at quarter past seven o'clock.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONCERTS.

Anniversary at the Universalist Church.

The Universalist Sabbath School observed its fortieth anniversary last evening, on which occasion the large auditorium was completely filled. The decorations were of an appropriate character and were very handsome. The exercises were as follows:

Organ voluntary; Anthem by choir, "I Would Trust by Thy Protecting;" singing by school, "Joyfully, Joyfully;" responsive reading by Superintendent Collamore and the school; singing by school, "Rejoice, Rejoice;" prayer by Rev. E. W. Preble; singing by school "Lord remember My Prayer;" report of the Secretary, Mr. A. F. Smith. From the latter we learn that the whole number of the school is 404, an increase of 19 over last year. Two members of the school Miss Alice Strickland and Mr. Bean, and two former members, Mrs. ——— formerly Miss Susie Warren and Mr. John Wellington, have died during the present year. The report was followed by a Scripture recitation by Mrs. Staples' class of young ladies; solo by Mr. Patten "Above the Stars there is Rest;" reading by Mrs. Dr. Plummer, "Malibran, the Young Musician" which was beautifully rendered; singing by the school; address by Rev. Mr. Preble. The address was prepared for this occasion and was very interesting and profitable. The pastor was followed by Dr. Torsey, President of the Seminary at Kent's Hill, who made some very happy remarks, at the close of which the congregation united in singing "Coronation" and the exercises closed with the benediction by Dr. Torsey.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.

A very interesting Christmas Sabbath School concert was held at the Unitarian church last evening. The exercises opened with an organ voluntary and selection by the choir, after which the pastor, Rev. Mr. Stewart, spoke briefly and during the course of his remarks took occasion to congratulate the society upon the encouraging outlook for the future of the school, now that so many have become interested in it. Then followed singing and a responsive service, at the close of which Mr. Sabine read a Christmas poem written by a former member and teacher of the school; reading by Maud Simpson, "A Christmas Carol;" recitation by Henry Godfrey and and Howard Simpson, "An Awful Story;" recitation by Eva Stewart; recitation by Arthur Hamlin, "The Saviour of St. Michael;" recitation by Langdon Wood; song by Ruth Crowell and responsive exercise by the school; reading by Mabel Woods; recitation by little Miss Hunt; recitation by Ned Hunt; exercise by a class of little girls; recitation by Florence Call; reading by Miss Boardman; song by Mrs. Crowell and responsive exercise by school; recitation by little Miss Daggett; remarks by Gen. Hamlin; song by school and benediction by the pastor.

The church was handsomely decorated, there being an evergreen arch over the altar studded with flowers, while choice bouquets were placed about the stage in profusion. The attendance was large.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH.

A pleasant Christmas concert was held in the vestry of the First Parish church last evening. An exercise appropriate to the occasion and carefully prepared by the Superintendent, J. H. Crosby, occupied the first half of the evening. The recitations by the smaller scholars were promptly given; a Christmas song by the members of Miss Bessie Coombs class and a select reading by Mrs. Ellis, deserves special mention. An interesting and instructive address by Prof. Stearns, of the Theological Seminary, closed the exercises of the evening.

CENTRAL CHURCH.

A largely attended Christmas concert was also held at the Central church last evening. The auditorium presented a very attractive appearance, being appropriately trimmed with evergreen and flowers about the altar and front of the galleries. The exercises prepared by Superintendent Pearl, were as follows: Singing by the school, "I Love to Tell the Story;" reading the 53d Psalm in concert; singing by the school, "Joy to the World;" prayer by the pastor; recitation by Frank McQuinn, "It is I is Birthday;" selection by the choir, "Watchman tell us of the Night;" reading by Mrs. Geo. Hall, "O say Little Ones have you Heard the Sweet Story;" recitation by Lilly and Louise Stetson and Alice Pearl; singing by the Infant class; reading by Mrs. Douse, "A Christmas Carol;" selection by the choir; reading the Scriptures by Rev. Mr. Field; recitations by different classes; singing by Geo. Boyd, Walter Goodnow, Alma and Mabel Haynes; chant by the choir; remarks by the pastor, after which the exercises closed with singing and the benediction. The average attendance during the month has been 279.

Amusement Notes.

The opening sale of seats for the Hindoo exhibition occurs this morning at Bugbee's. This entertainment is drawing crowded houses wherever given.

We learn that those in charge of Norombega Hall, have agreed that the auditorium shall be thoroughly heated next Friday evening.

BREAKING AND ENTERING.

A Store on Hammond Street entered Saturday Night.

At about eleven o'clock Saturday night a man informed Officer Mayville that he had seen two men remove a lot of clothes wringers from the shop of a man named Hobbs, on Hammond street, and take them away in a pung. Officer Mayville went after Hobbs and they visited the shop together, where Hobbs stated that fourteen wringers were missing, five of which belonged to him and the remainder were some that he was repairing.

They then went down to the station house and informed Marshal Reed who detailed Officer Allen to go with Mayville and see what they could make out of the matter. From some information which they had received the officers were convinced that J. J. Finson and Chase Leavitt, better known as "Diamond Dasher," were the men that had taken the wringers, and they first called on Leavitt who lives down by the steamboat wharf. He acknowledged that he went to the shop with Finson and took the wringers, but claimed that they had a right to as Hobbs was owing Finson, who had placed some kind of an attachment on the wringers for his pay.

The officers knew that they could easily get Leavitt when they wanted him, so they left there and visited the home of Finson, which is in the vicinity of Fourth street. They roused him from his slumbers and when asked if he had the wringers he hesitated for a moment and then replied that he had. In reply to a question by Officer Allen as to why he took them, he said that sometimes we all do things that we should not; but in almost the same breath he said that he had taken counsel in the matter. Officer Allen then asked him if he meant to state that he had been advised to take the wringers in this manner, but Finson refused to answer claiming that he could settle the matter Monday.

The officers then insisted on seeing the machines which were found in the pung in the barn, and as Hobbs identified them as the same taken from his shop, Finson and wringers were taken to the station house. The officers then went after Leavitt and brought him up to the station. It is not known just how the men gained an entrance, but it is supposed that they had a key. Both men will be arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering, in the Police Court to-day. Finson is a man about sixty years old and has been employed by Hobbs in gathering these machines to be repaired, and Leavitt is about thirty years old.

A discovery which cures by the natural process, ABSORPTION, all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs and Nervous System, when youth or age can. It is certain in its effects, and the first cure for those painful and much dreaded affections,

Diabetes, and Bright's Disease,

while its cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Catarrh of the Bladder, Rheumatism, Retention, Painful Urinating, High-Colored Urine, Nervous Weakness and Pain in the Back seem more like miracles than cases of natural healing. The price brings it within the reach of all, and it will annually save many times its cost, in doctors' bills, and relieve a world of pain, which at best give but temporary relief. It can be used without fear or harm, and is certainty of a permanent cure. For sale by druggists generally, or sent by mail (free of postage) on receipt of the price. Circular, Pamphlet, Child's Pad (or instrument of pride in children) $1.50; Special (extra size) $3.00. Our book, "How a Life was Saved," giving the history of this new discovery and a long record of most remarkable cures sent free. Write for it. Address,

DAY KIDNEY PAD CO., TOLEDO, OHIO.

CAUTION. Owing to the many worthless Kidney Pads now seeking a sale on our reputation, we deem it due both to ourself and to the public to say that DAY'S KIDNEY PAD, and take no other.

BEASTLY DISEASES!

Such as Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation, Chronic Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia, &c., etc.

LOSS OF NERVOUS POWER.

Are positively cured by FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES.

As phosphorous enters largely into the animal economy, it becomes self-evidence the best vehicle with which to associate the other vitalizing ingredients of healthy Blood, Nerve and Muscle. In Fellows's Syrup of Hypophosphites are combined all the substances found necessary to insure robust health, and whereas it was invented with a view to supply every deficiency, it certainly has performed some wonderful cures.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 18, 1880.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS.

Dear Sir: I wish to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of "Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites." I have been an invalid for nearly two years, with a bronchial affection that had become chronic. In the fall of 1878 I had a physician eighty days in succession, besides the counsel of several others. They gave me but little encouragement, some of them telling me that I was past all help. I tried a remedy a trial. I did so, and in less than one week there was a marked improvement for the better. I have not used it since, but have taken it until to present, improving all the time and I can truthfully say I am no more than a hundred pounds better in flesh than when I commenced. I have increased in weight about fifteen pounds, and my cough, which was fearful, has nearly disappeared. If I had used it sooner, or had a full supply, I should have been beyond the care of life. Very truly yours,

ALBERT STORY.
